Twenty-one managers were required to account for Gameweek 6. Every figure in this edition is final: bonus applied, auto-substitutions processed, ranks verified against 11,090,491 managers worldwide. BruceBall posted 79 points to take the week, while Newpi and are you aMAD managed 40 apiece. Alfonso Castrejon left 29 points on the bench while playing a Wildcard, Nick Revia paid sixteen points for five transfers, and Danny Lopez backed Cole Palmer for a 16-point armband while twenty more sat on his bench. The global average was 58 and the global best 131.

THE GEORDIE CHARGE: 79 POINTS TOPS THE LEAGUE

GAMEWEEK 6 · THE LOBSTER LEAGUE · BRUCEBALL — Alex Bruce fires a gameweek-high 79 points, proving late entry is no barrier to pure football violence.

EIGHT POINTS CLEAR AT THE CREST

GAMEWEEK 6 · THE LOBSTER LEAGUE · BART'S TEAM — A calculated Groß punt keeps the machine ticking at the summit as gian jaen breathes down his neck.

WILDCARD CHAOS: 29 BENCH POINTS DEFIED

GAMEWEEK 6 · THE LOBSTER LEAGUE · EL COCHILOCO — Alfonso Castrejon presses the red button only to watch a small fortune outscore his starting XI from the dugout.

THE MINUS-SIXTEEN APOCALYPSE

GAMEWEEK 6 · THE LOBSTER LEAGUE · CAPTAIN BRUNO — Nick Revia burns five transfers and sixteen points in a manic trading frenzy, netting 56 on the day.

COLE PALMER'S STREET PARTY: 70 POINTS

GAMEWEEK 6 · THE LOBSTER LEAGUE · FC RTW — Danny Lopez unleashes the Chelsea maestro for 70 points, ignoring 20 points rotting on the bench.

CATCHING WAVES AT RANK NINETEEN

GAMEWEEK 6 · THE LOBSTER LEAGUE · NEWPI — Nico Zarzaua banks 40 points with Haaland, completely unfazed by mid-table existential angst.

In Brief

Late Entrant Takes The Week. BruceBall, which joined the competition at Gameweek 3, scored 79 points and out-scored all twenty other clubs. It still sits at the foot of the table, which is what happens when you arrive two weeks late.

Wildcard Played, Twenty-Nine Points Benched. El Cochiloco activated the Wildcard and left 29 points on the bench, the largest single waste of the weekend. The Wildcard remains a fine chip. The bench was not part of the plan.

Five Transfers, Sixteen Points Lost. captain bruno made five moves and paid a sixteen-point deduction, finishing the gameweek on 56. Five new footballers returned a combined 22 points. The arithmetic is not discussed in polite company.

Palmer Captained, Palmer Delivers, Bench Delivers More. fc rtw doubled Cole Palmer for sixteen points and a gameweek total of 70. Twenty points sat on the bench regardless.

CORRECTIONS

A previous edition suggested the summit was under threat. Bart's Team now leads by eight points. This newspaper has revised its position and its sense of occasion.

Isak was named captain by Camp Nou Way. He did not play, and the armband passed to the vice-captain by rule. This is not a correction so much as a reminder.

BruceBall's total reflects four gameweeks, not six. Any comparison with the rest of the table should be conducted at your own risk.

† BruceBall entered at Gameweek 3 and has contested four gameweeks rather than six; its deficit is partly structural. · +/– shows places gained or lost against the post-Gameweek-5 table, with the number of places inside: green for a climb, red for a fall, amber for no change. · Chips shows chips REMAINING of four. · Hit is the Gameweek 6 deduction only. · Arm is the points actually delivered by the armband after any transfer to the vice-captain.

How to read this page. Overall Rank is your cumulative position across the whole season. Gameweek 6 Rank is your position for this single week. Both are printed as your position out of 11,090,491 total managers, then converted to a percentile. Lower is better — a shorter bar is a stronger result, and a bar printed in vermilion means the bottom quartile of the world.

CORRESPONDENCE RECEIVED AHEAD OF THE GAMEWEEK 7 DEADLINE

SIR — I took a sixteen-point deduction for five transfers and I would like it noted that every one of them was a good idea at the time. The time has since passed.
N. REVIA, captain bruno

SIR — Twenty-nine points on the bench in a week I spent my Wildcard. I have been advised this is not what the chip is for. I am told the bench is not a strategy.
A. CASTREJON, El Cochiloco

SIR — I captained Cole Palmer and he returned sixteen points. My bench returned twenty. I am raising the matter with the committee.
D. LOPEZ, fc rtw

SIR — Seventy-nine points. I will accept flowers, a handshake or a modest trophy. I am three gameweeks late and have no intention of apologising.
A. BRUCE, BruceBall

SIR — Forty points, in the company of one other man. We are not speaking about it. We are not speaking at all.

THE JOÃO PEDRO DIVIDEND

João Pedro was held by 16 of 21 clubs and returned 12 points. He was started by 14 and benched by 2, and 4 managers handed him the armband — the best use of ownership in the division this week.

The verdict. João Pedro delivered the best armband in this division at 24 points, claimed by szobamela. Cole Palmer returned eight, doubled to sixteen, for fc rtw, who then left twenty more on the bench. Haaland, the choice of 4 managers, returned 12. Isak, named by Camp Nou Way, did not play and the armband passed down to the vice-captain by rule. A multiplier of ×0 means the named captain never played.

FOUR CHIPS REMAINING (7). You have done very little and it has worked. Mercury suggests continuing to do nothing, which you will find effortless. A rival will spend a Wildcard in panic; smile, say little.

THREE CHIPS REMAINING (7). You are comfortable, solvent and slightly smug. The stars advise against reading the group chat. Your Bench Boost is not a personality.

TWO CHIPS REMAINING (2). A difficult passage, but survivable. Venus counsels patience, banked transfers and a firm refusal to look at price-change websites after midnight.

ONE CHIP REMAINING (5). You spent your hand early and are now defending a lead with a single Free Hit and good intentions. Avoid injuries, optimism and the number minus sixteen.

NO CHIPS REMAINING (0). Nobody in this league is in this position, which is the only reason the stars have anything to say to you at all.

NOTICE TO MANAGERS

The Gameweek 7 deadline falls on Saturday 17 October 2026 at 10:00 UTC. That is 2 days from the publication of this edition. In the judgement of this newspaper, at least one club in this division will forget entirely.

A REMINDER ON ARITHMETIC

This league surrendered 16 points to transfer deductions and abandoned 176 points on benches in Gameweek 6 alone. The combined figure is 192 points, which is 134 more than the global average score. No transfer is compulsory.

ON READING TEAM SHEETS

1 club appointed a captain who did not play: Camp Nou Way. The information was published in advance and was available at no cost. This newspaper offers no further comment.

GAMEWEEKS 7 TO 11 · EVERY PREMIER LEAGUE SIDE · DIFFICULTY AS RATED BY THE GAME

How to read this page. Each cell shows the opponent, whether the fixture is home (H) or away (A), and the official difficulty rating from that club's perspective — 2 is kind, 3 is neutral, 4 is awkward, 5 is punishing. Total adds the five ratings together, so a lower total is a better run. The final column shows how many of this league's twenty-one clubs currently own at least one player from that side. These are the game's own difficulty ratings, not a scoring projection.

Reading The Run

Coventry City hold the kindest schedule in the division across the next five gameweeks, with a combined difficulty of 13. Man Utd hold the hardest at 17.

14 clubs in this league still hold three or four chips. A Wildcard played into a kind run is worth considerably more than one played in a panic, and the table above is the closest thing this newspaper can offer to a calendar.

The Gameweek 7 deadline is Saturday 17 October at 10:00 UTC. Nothing on this page requires action before then, and this newspaper would gently discourage any.

THE INQUEST · FIVE QUESTIONS

Q1. Bart, 445 points and an eight-point lead. Are you enjoying the view?

A. The view is excellent, thank you. I can see everyone from here, which is convenient because they keep trying to catch me.

Q2. You captained Groß, a 6-point player who doubled to 12. Brave or lucky?

A. Neither. Groß assisted, Brighton kept a clean sheet, and I get 12. Call it inevitability with a nice shirt.

Q3. Only 1 point left on the bench this week. Is that a flex?

A. It's called squad management. Some of you should look it up, preferably before you leave 29 points on the bench.

Q4. Gian Jaen is eight back and has a spreadsheet for everything. Nervous?

A. He tied me on 64 this week and still lost ground on the table. I'm not nervous. I'm sympathetic.

Q5 · THE CLOSING STATEMENT

What's the message to the chasing pack heading into GW7?

A. Keep chasing. It's good cardio, and I'll wave when you lap me.

TRAJECTORY

Q1. Gian, 64 points, level with the leader on the week. Satisfied?

A. Satisfaction isn't a metric. Level on points means a delta of zero, and the gap to Bart is still eight.

Q2. You captained B.Fernandes, who returned 2 raw points. What did the model say?

A. The model gave him a high expected return. He underperformed that by roughly 10 points. That's variance, not error, and I'll keep the pick.

Q3. 11 points sat on your bench. Does that bother you?

A. Yes. It's a 17% inefficiency on a 64-point week, and I've logged it. It won't repeat unless the probabilities say otherwise.

Q4. Is the 8-point deficit recoverable?

A. Recoverable, yes. Likely over the next 32 gameweeks, a little. I put the probability of closing it by GW10 at about 41%.

Q5 · THE CLOSING STATEMENT

Any emotion you'd like to share with the readers?

A. I have a 0.3 confidence interval on whether I feel anything. Next question.

TRAJECTORY

Q1. Jose, 57 points. The room expected more from a man of your standing.

A. The room is welcome to its expectations. I prefer to be right in the long run, even when the short run is vulgar.

Q2. You captained João Pedro, and he scored twice. So why only 57?

A. Because João Pedro returned 12 points for me and 15 sat on my bench. I refuse to discuss it, except to say the bench is the hand that fed me.

Q3. Verbruggen, Aït-Nouri, Frimpong and Gomez all sat there. Was that a plan?

A. It was a statement about depth. Mine is considerable and, regrettably, unused.

Q4. The template is flocking to the same names this week. Does that bother you?

A. The template is a crowd, and I have never enjoyed crowds. If everyone owns it, I'd like to own something else.

Q5 · THE CLOSING STATEMENT

You are third. Will you catch Bart?

A. Bart is a spirited young man. I will catch him politely, and he will thank me for it.

THE INQUEST · FIVE QUESTIONS

Q1. Alexis, 67 points and into the top four. You must be thrilled?

A. Thrilled? I scored 67 and I can only think of the 68th. I do not deserve this rank, and yet I'm here, shaking.

Q2. You captained B.Fernandes, who gave you 2 raw points. How do you feel?

A. Like a man who handed a stranger his house keys. I looked at the armband and saw a mistake, and I made it anyway.

Q3. Your bench cost you only 1 point. Surely that is something?

A. One point. A single, mocking point. It's the universe's way of saying I'm not suffering properly.

Q4. The top four. Does it feel earned?

A. No. I should be fined, not promoted. If anyone wants my place, there's a queue behind me, and I'll hold the door.

Q5 · THE CLOSING STATEMENT

What's next for you?

A. I'll write a letter to my Gameweek 6 self apologising, and then not send it. That feels about right.

TRAJECTORY

Q1. Khang, 67 points and fifth. Walk us through the week.

A. So, in aggregate it was strong, but if you break it into position groups and adjust for fixture difficulty, I'm not sure how much of it was me versus noise.

Q2. You captained Groß, who returned 6, doubled to 12. Why him?

A. I looked at the key passes and the minutes projection and the opponent's shape. There were also three other options I weighted at 0.04 each, so it wasn't a clean call.

Q3. 14 points sat on your bench, including Guéhi and Semenyo. Thoughts?

A. I did think about swapping them. Then I thought about the thinking, then the deadline came and I'd only finished the first draft.

Q4. Is overthinking a weakness?

A. Maybe. Or it might be a feature, but I'd have to build a sample first, and a sample of one season is insufficient.

Q5 · THE CLOSING STATEMENT

Where do you see yourself after GW7?

A. Probably around fifth, give or take, with a wide interval and a nagging feeling that I missed a variable.

THE INQUEST · FIVE QUESTIONS

Q1. Phillip, 54 points. What happened?

A. Football's a funny old game, Gary. It's a game of two halves, and we were on the wrong side of a few of them.

Q2. You captained Haaland, who scored and got 6, doubled to 12. Surely a good armband?

A. The big man did his job. He's a goal machine. You can't legislate for what the other ten do, and that's what cost us.

Q3. Zero points on the bench, though. Did you get your selection right?

A. Eleven men, all giving 110 per cent, nobody sitting about. That's old-fashioned team spirit right there.

Q4. You are sixth, one point behind fifth. Is the title still on?

A. It's a marathon, not a sprint. We take it one game at a time and we don't look beyond the next fixture.

Q5 · THE CLOSING STATEMENT

A word for your critics?

A. Opinions are like elbows. Everybody's got one, and the table doesn't lie. Over thirty-eight games it all evens out.

THE INQUEST · FIVE QUESTIONS

Q1. Alfonso, you played your Wildcard and left 29 points on the bench. How?

A. The Wildcard was meant to save me, and instead it built a cathedral of unused points. De Cuyper alone scored 15 and watched from the dugout. It was written.

Q2. Fifteen points from a benched defender. Did you see it coming?

A. I saw it in my dreams, in black and white. Then I woke up and clicked confirm anyway. Fate is a cruel autopilot.

Q3. You captained Rogers, who scored a goal and 9 raw points. Is that not good news?

A. Joy is just sorrow with a delay. Eighteen points from the armband, and 29 stranded at the back. The gods take what they give.

Q4. Total 391 and seventh. Is the Wildcard a failure?

A. The Wildcard was never a failure. It was a prophecy, and I misread the scripture. We go on.

Q5 · THE CLOSING STATEMENT

Anything to say to your squad?

A. To De Cuyper: forgive me. To the rest: I'll see you at the end, when the numbers are finally tallied.

THE INQUEST · FIVE QUESTIONS

Q1. Joshua, 53 points. Arsenal beat Leeds 2-1. Pleased?

A. Pleased? Arsenal won. Calafiori scored, Bruno G. scored, and three points is three points. The rest of the league can do its worst.

Q2. Your captain João Pedro scored twice and returned 12, doubled to 24. Yet only 53 overall?

A. 24 from the armband was lovely. But I'm not here to apologise for the other ten. Show me an Arsenal fan who'd swap his defenders.

Q3. Isak sat on your bench. Do you regret that?

A. I regret nothing. I back the process, and the process is Arsenal first, everyone else second.

Q4. Ødegaard returned 1 point in the same match, though. Do you wonder if you should have shifted?

A. He was 89 minutes of artistry. Points aren't everything. The defence kept it tight and that's what matters.

Q5 · THE CLOSING STATEMENT

A. Never. I'll be wearing red until the final whistle in May, with or without a mini-league trophy.

THE INQUEST · FIVE QUESTIONS

Q1. Neil, 64 points. How would you describe your Gameweek 6 performance?

A. We over-delivered against a challenging macro environment, achieving 64 points without material headcount reduction. Q6 results speak for themselves.

Q2. You captained Haaland, who got 6 raw, doubled to 12. Is that a win?

A. It's a strong return on a high-conviction asset. We'll circle back in a leadership sync to align on how to scale the goal.

Q3. You made two transfers, no hit. Your strategy?

A. Two transfers, zero cost. It's called lean restructuring, and the shareholders, meaning my mum, are thrilled.

Q4. Zero points on the bench. Efficient?

A. We have fully optimised our human capital. Every asset on the pitch was synergising right to the 90th minute.

THE INQUEST · FIVE QUESTIONS

Q1. Cameron, 58 points. Your captain Ødegaard returned 1 point. Thoughts?

A. I won't speak. If I speak, I am in big trouble. Ødegaard, ah, I trusted him, and he gave me two points. Perhaps I've been quiet for too long.

Q2. Is Ødegaard still in your plans?

A. In my plans, yes. In my heart, I've been disrespected. We have a respectful relationship, but it is a respectful relationship of silence.

Q3. Only 3 bench points, so a tidy week. Were you pleased?

A. Tidy is not the same as great. I'm a student of victory, and today I was a student of failure.

Q4. You are tenth. Is a title charge on?

A. Last year I was The Special One. This year I'm just a man with a spreadsheet and a broken armband.

Q5 · THE CLOSING STATEMENT

A message for the rest of the league?

A. Be humble. The fixtures turn quickly and the armband giveth and taketh away. I've learned this the hard way.

THE INQUEST · FIVE QUESTIONS

Q1. Aleksa, 62 points and 11th. A good week?

A. Above average, which in a universe tending towards heat death is a rounding error. But yes, fine.

Q2. You captained Haaland, 6 raw, doubled to 12. Pleased?

A. He scored a goal. It briefly mattered. Then the match ended, and so will the season, and so will we.

Q3. Zero points on your bench. Excellent management?

A. I picked eleven players and four more. The four did nothing. Much like all of us.

Q4. Why call your team FK Jizmaila Sarr?

A. Because it's funny for about four seconds, and then it's just a name, like everything.

Q5 · THE CLOSING STATEMENT

Any hope for the title?

A. Hope is a thing with feathers. I have a thing with a score of 346. We'll see which flies.

Q1. Marie, 46 points. What went wrong?

A. Not much went right. I made a transfer, captained Havertz, and he came on 62 minutes and returned 2. Doubled, that's 4.

Q2. Why did you captain Havertz?

A. The numbers were reasonable and the fixture was soft. It didn't work. I move on.

Q3. 8 points on the bench. Frustrated?

A. Mildly. Lacroix and Anderson didn't help. I note it and continue.

Q4. Are you worried about your position?

A. Twelfth is twelfth. There are 26 gameweeks left in which it can be changed or not.

Q1. Danny, 70 points and the second highest in the league. But you left 20 on the bench. Explain.

A. Look, mate, 70 is 70. But yeah, 20 on the pine, including João Pedro with 12. I tweaked, I re-tweaked, and the tweak bit me.

Q2. You captained Palmer, who gave two assists and 8 points, doubled to 16. Was it the dream?

A. It was decent, not the dream. 16 from the armband is a nice earner, but I'm not putting it in the frame.

Q3. Did you really bench João Pedro on his two-goal day?

A. I had four better shouts on paper and one fire sale I wanted to pull. Then he scored twice, and I wanted to scream into the Tube.

Q4. You made zero transfers. So where did the tweaking go?

A. Lineup tweaks. I swapped the XI eleven times on deadline day. The street teaches you to never leave a stone unturned, even if the stone was right.

Q5 · THE CLOSING STATEMENT

Are you going to stop tweaking?

A. Never. I'd be lost. But maybe I'll tweak with my eyes open next week.

Q2. You captained Thiago, who returned 4 and doubled to 8. Was it a systems failure?

THE INQUEST · FIVE QUESTIONS

Q1. Nick, you took a -16 hit for five transfers and scored 56. Break it down for us.

A. Okay, so 72 gross, minus 16, that's 56 net, and I'm buying the dip on everything. The portfolio's volatile but I'm long on chaos.

Q2. You captained Kostoulas, who got 1 point. What was the thesis?

A. Pre-market momentum, the underlying numbers looked bullish, and I liked the ticker. It cratered. Next question before I short myself.

Q3. 17 points on your bench. Did you notice?

A. I noticed after the close. Guéhi and Matheus N. were sitting there like unsold stock. I'll liquidate them on Monday.

Q4. Is the -16 hit a mistake?

A. It's a position, not a mistake. The market's irrational, and I'm just moving faster than the crowd, who are, to be fair, ahead of me.

THE INQUEST · FIVE QUESTIONS

Q1. Giancarlos, 69 points, just behind Danny's 70. Pleased with your dark work?

A. Ha ha ha! 69 points! The Akatsuki rises from the shadows, and the weak tremble at the sight of my armband.

Q2. You captained João Pedro, who scored twice and got 12, doubled to 24. How do you feel?

A. The Sharingan of captaincy saw it all. His two goals were the beginning of my reign. Bow before me, mortals.

Q3. 12 points sat on your bench. Does that bother you?

A. A true villain sacrifices pieces for his ultimate design. The bench is not weakness. It is a sealed power.

Q4. You are 18th. Why the poor rank?

A. Ranks are illusions. I do not seek your rankings. I seek the TRUTH of the final standings.

Q5 · THE CLOSING STATEMENT

Any message for Bart Simp?

A. Bart. You have power, but you lack the hunger. Soon, the Akatsuki will take the first place. Hahaha!

THE INQUEST · FIVE QUESTIONS

Q1. Nico, 40 points. The lowest in the league this week. Thoughts?

A. Dude, honestly? The waves were epic this morning, so I'm calling it a win. The points will roll in like the tide.

Q2. You captained Haaland, who scored and returned 6, doubled to 12. What happened to the rest?

A. Wait, Haaland scored? Gnarly. I just saw him in a blue shirt and thought, yep, that's the guy.

Q3. Zero points on your bench. Is that a good thing?

A. Is it? That sounds pretty chill. Everyone's playing, nobody's on the sand. Good vibes.

Q4. You're 19th. Does that bother you?

A. 19th is a cool number. It's like a prime. I only know that because someone told me once at the beach.

Q5 · THE CLOSING STATEMENT

What's your plan for the next gameweek?

A. Catch some swell, pick a captain, hit confirm. If it doesn't work, there's always the next set.

THE INQUEST · FIVE QUESTIONS

Q1. Felix, 40 points. Another disappointing week?

A. Disappointing is optimistic. It's the same old story. I wake up, I look at the scores, and I think: right, then.

Q2. You captained Groß, who gave you 6, doubled to 12. A decent shout?

A. It's fine. It's always fine. Fine is what you get when the weather's grey and the kids are home.

Q3. Zero points on your bench. Silver lining?

A. The silver lining is that nothing was wasted, because there was nothing to waste. That's British optimism.

Q4. You're 20th. How do you cope?

A. With tea, mostly. And a vague expectation that it'll rain on my parade, which it does, regularly.

Q5 · THE CLOSING STATEMENT

Will anything change?

A. No. But I'll act like it might, because that's what we do. Cheers, then.

Q1. Alex, 79 points, the top score in the league. Howay, how are ye?

A. Howay man, I'm buzzing! Seventy-nine points, the top score, and not a bad word for any of the lads. Canny!

Q2. You captained João Pedro, who scored twice and returned 12, doubled to 24. Fancy a pint?

A. Aye, 24 from the armband. That's a proper captain's performance. Grand. I'll have a Newcastle Brown, thanks.

Q3. Zero points on your bench. How did you manage that?

A. Eleven lads playing for the shirt, pet. No passengers. That's how we used to do it at St James'.

Q4. You're 21st with 233 points. Are you chasing from a long way back?

A. Aye, I came in late, but I'm gannin' to catch up. A bit of graft and some luck and I'll be up the table.

Mind The Gameweek 7 Deadline

TO ALL 21 MANAGERS OF THE LOBSTER LEAGUE

2 DAYS · GAMEWEEK 7 DEADLINE 17 OCT 2026 AT 10:00 UTC

Gameweek 6 is final. Bonus points are applied, auto-substitutions are processed, and every rank printed in this edition has been verified against 11,090,491 managers worldwide. BruceBall topped the league on 79 points, Newpi and are you aMAD sat at the bottom on 40, and the division spent the weekend arguing about the bench. The table moves again on Saturday afternoon.

14 of you still hold three or four chips. One of you took a sixteen-point hit, and one of you left twenty-nine points on the bench while playing a Wildcard. The days ahead are a short, quiet examination of who can leave their squad alone.

What To Do Before The Deadline

- Watch the team news on Friday. The Gameweek 7 deadline is Saturday at 10:00 UTC, so press conferences and injury updates arrive on Thursday and Friday. Read them before moving anything.
- Use your free transfer, not a hit. Sixteen points were paid in deductions in Gameweek 6, all by one club. A single free transfer is almost always enough, and a banked one is worth more than a rushed one.
- Check your armband twice. One captain did not play a minute this week, and the armband passed to the vice-captain by rule. Confirm the starter and the sub list before the deadline.
- Audit the bench. 176 points sat on benches across this league. Read the bench order as carefully as the starting eleven.
- Chips are for a reason. A Wildcard is for repairing a squad, a Free Hit for a blank, a Bench Boost for a double. Do not spend one because the week was quiet.
- Look beyond Gameweek 7. The Fixture Planner covers Gameweeks 7 to 11. Buy a run, not a single good afternoon.
- Mind the price changes. Prices move overnight. Do not take a points hit to chase a rise.
- Set an actual reminder. Somebody in this league will forget the deadline. Put it in your phone today and do not be that manager.

A Word For Each Of You

01	Bart's Team	Eight points clear on 445, Bart. Enjoy the view, but do check the Free Hit is still earning its place.
02	Gaucho F.C.	Gian, swapping Isak for João Pedro was a twelve-point decision. Captaining Fernandes for one was less so.
03	szobamela	Jose, João Pedro doubled for 24 points; the fifteen on the bench is the part to dwell on.
04	papoy	Alexis, Verbruggen over Kinsky gained six points at the transfer desk. Quiet, clean work.
05	Dang Football Club	Khang, Groß was the right signing and the 14 benched points the wrong sort of generosity.
06	Saka la bolsita	Phillip, a clean bench and Haaland doubled. Sometimes 54 is simply what the week gives you.
07	El Cochiloco	Alfonso, a Wildcard and 29 points on the bench in a single week. Check the lineup before the deadline.
08	Gunner4Lyfe	Joshua, João Pedro was the right armband and 53 points was still the outcome. A mystery for the ages.
09	Red Lobster FC	Neil, all four chips intact and 64 points on the board. Patience is a strategy, and yours is working.
10	The Special Ones	Cameron, four chips untouched. Eventually the cigar has to be lit.
11	FK Jizmaila Sarr	Aleksa, 62 points with the full chip set. The silence is working in your favour.
12	MAD Baller	Marie, selling João Pedro for Havertz cost ten points on the swap. We all have a transfer we would take back.
13	Camp Nou Way	Abner, Isak never played and João Pedro was sold for Calvert-Lewin. Please read the team news this time.
14	fc rtw	Danny, Palmer captained for 16 and 70 points tops the weekend among the established clubs. Now play the bench.
15	sakadeez	Drin, 17 points sat on your bench. Move one of them into the eleven before Saturday.
16	GP FC	Chris, 24 points benched is the heaviest sentence handed down this gameweek in this league bar one.
17	captain bruno	Nick, five transfers and a sixteen-point hit. Bank a free transfer instead and breathe.
18	Akatsuki	Giancarlos, João Pedro captained for 24 points and 69 on the week. A strong weekend by any measure.
19	Newpi	Nico, 40 points is the floor, and the floor is a fine place to build from. You are not alone down there.
20	are you aMAD	Felix, Groß for Fernandes gained five points and 40 total was not your fault alone. Go again.
21	BruceBall	Alex, 79 points is the best score in this league. Now do it again with six gameweeks of history behind you.

And finally. Six gameweeks in, this league surrendered 16 points to transfer deductions and abandoned 176 points on benches in a single week alone. Alfonso benched twenty-nine on a Wildcard, Nick paid sixteen for five transfers, Danny captained Palmer for sixteen with twenty more on the bench, and Alex arrived three weeks late and posted the best score of anyone. It has been, by any reasonable measure, a magnificent mess — and there are thirty-two gameweeks still to come.

See you on the other side.
